Hereinafter designated jointly as "the Organisers"

ARTICLE 1: OBJECT OF AWARDS

EDF and WIN France have agreed to organise jointly every year an Awards event named "Fem'Energia" whose goals are:

- Promote women's participation in the nuclear sector, give more visibility to women in scientific, technical and technological nuclear-related occupations, and highlight exemplary careers in nuclear industries.
- Attract young women and detect student profiles oriented towards scientific, technical and technological professions in nuclear industries.
- Recognize exemplary career paths deserving being encouraged and published.

The Awards' target:

- Female students in vocational high-school filed in a "Baccalauréat Professionnel" curriculum, students attending higher education establishments (TID, TUI, HNC), Bachelors Degree, Professional Bachelors, Masters and Engineering Schools, preparing for scientific, technical and technological professions "with potential nuclear applications".
- Women working in professional positions and/or involved in public communication or in academia and/or involved in women-advocacy activities in the nuclear sector.

ARTICLE 2: DESCRIPTION OF AWARDS

Fem'Energia Awards are granted in 2 categories:

1. Category "Students"
2. Category "Professionals"

Three First Prizes are awarded in the "Student" category:

- Award for "CAP, BEP, Baccalauréat Professionnel"
- Award for (TID, TUI, HNC), Bachelors Degree & Professional Bachelors Degree (higher education graduate level)
- Award for University Masters, Engineering Degrees and Doctorate students (including first year of post-graduate studies)

Two First prizes are awarded in the "Professionals" category.

- Women working in France
- Women working in the European Union or in Switzerland

In each of the above Awards categories and subcategories, a second and third Prizes will also be awarded by the Jury to other Nominees (if there are three), in accordance with the specified terms in Articles 6 and 7 below.

Each year a "Fem'Energia Honorary Prize" may also be awarded in one or several categories by the Jury, on Review Committee proposal.

ARTICLE 3: CALL FOR CANDIDACIES

A call for candidacies is published on the www.edfreclute.com web site, on the WIN France web site www.win-france.org and on the WIN Europe web site www.win-europe.org.

Informational posters and brochures are also broadcasted in women scientist networks, in the relevant vocational high-schools, universities and engineering schools, as well as within EDF, the WiN France network, WiN Europe and other professional organisations related to the nuclear sector.

ARTICLE 4: CANDIDACIES

"Student" Category:

The Awards are open to all female high-school and higher education students currently enrolled in the final graduation year for the school/university year 2014-2015 in an educational establishment accredited by the French Ministry of Education and preparing the following degrees matching the respective award categories:

- "CAP, BEP, Baccalauréat Professionnel"
- TID, TUI, HNC, Bachelors Degree, Professional Bachelors Degree
- University Masters, Engineering Degrees

The target schools and institutions must prepare to scientific, technical or technological disciplines with potential application in the nuclear industry.

It is specified that candidates must apply for the category of prepared diploma during the year of the Awards.

"Professionals" Category:

It includes two prizes:

- Women working in France
- Women working in Member States of the European Union or in Switzerland at January 1st, 2015

The Awards are open to any woman holding a professional position in the nuclear sector and/or involved in public communication and/or in academia or in mentoring activities related to the nuclear sector having a minimum of 3 years of professional experience in the nuclear sector or in a related field.

Common Terms and Conditions to all categories:

Award Winners and Nominees awarded a Second or Third Prize may no longer present their candidacy to future awards. However, candidates who were not nominated, may re-submit their candidacy to future Awards.

Candidates will be asked how they heard about the Awards (media, web site, WiN France, EDF, or other source).

By filing an application, candidates acknowledge having read, understood and accepted these Rules and its Terms and Conditions.

These Fem'Energia Awards Rules may be revised each year by mutual decision of the Organisers.

ARTICLE 6: REVIEW COMMITTEES - PRE-SELECTION

One Review Committee is created for each Prize category.

Each Review Committee is set up of members appointed by Organisers' mutual consent.

After checking the validity of candidacy dossiers, each Committee screens the applications based on the following criteria:

- relevance and quality of application as related to its category,
- motivation expressed by the candidate,
- written presentation of the detailed and true description of the candidate's career and track-record, along with the description of her engagements and/or actions in favour of the nuclear sector, if any.

Each Review Committee will establish a short-list of pre-selected Nominees in order to submit them to the Jury members.

There will be a maximum number of 3 Nominees per Prize.

ARTICLE 7: JURY

The Jury membership is set up by:

- Human Resources Manager of EDF Nuclear Production Division,
- President of WiN France
- Director of EDF Group Employer Brand.

The Jury reconvenes in order to review the applications of the nominated candidates in each Prize category.

The Jury is free to deliberate and select the Award Winner in each Prize category, as well as the second and third Prizes (if 3 Nominees) and has no obligation to justify its final decisions.

One Winner will be designated per Award category, except candidates unanimously considered as ex aequo by the Jury.

The Jury will inform the Prize Winners and Nominees in due time and by whatever means they choose.

ARTICLE 8 – PRIZE AWARDS

8.1 Awards Ceremony

Award Winners and the Nominees will receive their Prizes at the time of Awards ceremony to be held on October 2015, date to be confirmed two weeks before.

Under the terms of their candidacy, Award Winners and Nominees expressly agree to attend the Awards ceremony and any other related communication event, as appropriate.

By accepting the Award, the Winners and the Nominees further commit to include in any communication or declaration a statement that they are FEM'ENERGIA Award Winners or Nominees in their category, and to contribute to any promotional action they may be requested to support.

Award Winners hereby authorise the Organisers to publish any multimedia picture or organise any information and communication actions that may be conducted in the context of the Awards publicity, and hereby release any claim to any related rights or compensation.

Nominees will be invited to the Award ceremony. They will be fully paid back the undertook travel and accommodation expenses to attend the Award ceremony, on provided written proof, based on the Organisers' expense schedule (rail or air round-trip in economic class).
